Interest Based Approach (IBA) values relationships as important or more important than the issues we may encounter within those relationships. Key elements of IBA are truthfulness, cooperation, effective communication, and consensus with individuals who we are in relationship with.

Faculty, classified and administrative staff, union officials, and senate leaders will find that the principles and elements of IBA have value in the performance of their jobs. Anyone with family, friends, children, group membership and significant others will also find benefit in the principles and elements of IBA. To learn more refer to the “Beyond IBA” newsletter!

Los Rios Community College District is presenting a 2.5-day IBA workshop and training session

October 28, 2009 (8:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m.)
October 29, 2009 (7:30 a.m.-6:00 p.m.)
October 30, 2009 (7:00 a.m. –1:30 p.m.)

Marriott Hotel: 11211 Point East Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95742 (Directions & maps @ www.Mapquest.com)